

Pacific Urethanes had a very successful National Manufacturing Week in Melbourne

Pacific Urethanes was an exhibitor at National Manufacturing Week Exhibition held in Melbourne earlier this year. Melbourne has reinforced the exhibition's role as 'the event that brings industry together'.

We were very pleased with the strong visitor numbers particularly senior managers and other business decision-makers responsible for making technology investments in their businesses.

Pacific Urethanes met many potential customers and look forward to providing solutions for them in the future.

Pacific Urethanes would also like to thank those who attended the exhibition and visited us at our stand.

Introducing our New South Australia and Western Australia Representative

Pacific Urethanes has recently appointed a new representative in South Australia and Western Australia.

We are pleased to announce that Sadie Lilley has joined the company and will be responsible for supporting our customers in those states.

Sadie has a chemistry degree from Melbourne University and over 20 years of experience in technical sales in the polymers industry. Since 2001 Sadie has operated from Adelaide and has also been servicing the Perth area for many years.

Sadie will be introduced to our SA and WA customers over the coming weeks. Improving our customer service is always our most important goal and this is another step forward in that direction.
